A note about the child-models in this publication: All of the people and children in the photos are volunteers; the children are all models photographed with the expressed permission of their legal guardian(s) or parent(s). All of the scenes have been posed; none of them depict actual incidents or refer to specific cases. In order to protect children and their confidentiality, absolutely no children who receive/received our services or their families were used in this publication.
Our Mission
To provide collaborative intervention services to child abuse victims, so that they are encouraged to embrace a future driven by hope.

Our Vision
To be the foundation for the most effective community response to reported child abuse and provide children a turning point on the pathway to healing.

Our Philosophy
Child abuse damages our community’s most vulnerable citizens and often has generational implications. In the context of violence, child abuse is a public health problem that presents complex social and moral dilemmas concerning its cause, effect and remedy. Addressing child abuse requires a comprehensive plan with multiple, coordinated strategies.
The Child Abuse Network (CAN) exists to reduce the trauma that a child abuse investigation can pose for a child. Before our program came into being, children frequently endured stressful examinations and numerous interviews by various agencies in cold, sterile facilities.

CAN owns and manages a specially designed facility where child abuse intervention services are centralized. By enabling medical, mental health, investigative and legal professionals to work together under one roof, CAN minimizes the trauma of multiple child interviews and medical exams, and eliminates duplicate efforts in determining whether abuse has occurred.

Most importantly, CAN provides families with referrals to therapeutic and community support services to connect children with the services they need to begin their healing.

CAN helps stop the hurt and begin the healing. To learn more about CAN visit: www.childabusenetwork.org.
It has been said that the best preparation for tomorrow is doing your best today. This year the Child Abuse Network team worked tirelessly to ensure that we effectively met the critical need for services while simultaneously preparing to lay the foundation for future growth opportunities.

It is difficult to comprehend that once again, over 2,516 children were in need of CAN this past year. For the past five years the number of children served has averaged around 2,500. These consistently high numbers have demonstrated that this is not an abnormality but rather our new reality. The Children’s Advocacy Center, CAN’s facility, continues to operate over capacity - an average of 50 children each week in a Center designed to serve 40 children a month. The numbers are overwhelming, yet they are also testimony to the fact that the Center is critical to child abuse investigators as they seek the best quality information in order to determine abuse while reducing system trauma to children and offering a compassionate transition for families from investigation to therapeutic and support services.

In addition to providing our child-focused services, the past year was a very busy year for CAN as we prepared for our re-accreditation in the fall of 2016. The process has involved detailing our compliance with the ten national standards for Children’s Advocacy Centers, which are included on pages 8 and 9 of this annual report. The board’s program resource committee, which is comprised of board members and staff, meticulously examined each standard and documented policies and procedures which guide CAN’s everyday operations. Drafts and re-writes kept the committee busy throughout the year and culminated in a 79 page narrative report which was submitted in April to our accrediting organization, the National Children’s Alliance (NCA). In addition to the narrative application, the accreditation process includes a site visit. In November, two NCA site reviewers spent a day interviewing CAN staff, partner agency representatives and board members. The reviewers then submitted their recommendation to the NCA board of directors regarding CAN’s re-accreditation.

CAN’s two major fundraising events were held in April: the CAN Superhero Challenge and the CANdlelight Ball. For the third year in a row, the Superhero Challenge was held on the grounds of PostOak Lodge on a spectacularly beautiful spring day. Children of all ages dressed as their favorite superhero and bounded over obstacles designed by community organizations and corporations. A huge thanks to event chairs Ashley Neal and Mary Ann Cameron for orchestrating this incredible event. Be sure to mark your calendars for next year’s event on Sunday, April 2, 2017. The 2017 Superhero Challenge will be chaired by Rebecca Thompson and Jessica Zimmerman. CAN’s second event, the CANdlelight Ball, was an elegant black tie event. Rachael Hunsucker chaired the unforgettable evening at the Mayo Hotel where our sponsors and their guests dined and enjoyed an evening of fantastic live entertainment. The seventh annual CANdlelight Ball will be held on Friday, April 21, 2017. The event chairs, Cari Marshall and Ashley Hudgeons, are in the midst of planning another memorable evening with a few surprises.

To all of you who have supported CAN throughout the past year, you have my sincere gratitude for allowing us to provide our quality, child-focused services to the thousands of children who needed them. CAN only exists because of the Tulsa community’s support and resolve that children should not be re-victimized by child abuse investigations. Donors, volunteers, staff and partner agencies all play a vital role in assuring that there is one place which is singularly focused on the child and where, in one appointment, a team of professionals can help relieve a child’s anxiety, fear and pain.

One place and one appointment to stop the hurt and begin the healing – a remarkable achievement. Thank you for making it possible.

Sincerely,

T. Carley Williams
2016 Board President
1 in 15 children is involved in a child abuse investigation in Tulsa county.

That’s about 2 children per average sized classroom.

We CAN Make a Difference

CAN’s Child Specialist, David Glanz, provided a mental health consultation at the request of the guardian of a sweet twelve-year-old girl who came to the Center for services. What the guardian later shared with David during a follow-up call truly moved him.

The child’s guardian told David, “Since we came to CAN four hours ago, this child is a completely different child, it’s like a weight has been lifted off her shoulders. Before coming to the Center, she was scared, and after her visit she crawled up in my lap and showed trust and affection.”
The Child Abuse Network, Inc. is an accredited member of the National Children’s Alliance (NCA). As a member of NCA, the Child Abuse Network is referred to as a Children’s Advocacy Center and operates under the following standards:
• Multidisciplinary Team
  A multidisciplinary team for response to child abuse allegations includes representation from the following: law enforcement, child protective services, prosecution, medical, mental health, victim advocacy and Children’s Advocacy Center.

• Cultural Competency and Diversity
  Culturally competent services are routinely made available to all CAC clients and coordinated with the multidisciplinary team response.

• Forensic Interviews
  Forensic interviews are conducted in a manner that is legally sound, of a neutral, fact finding nature, and are coordinated to avoid duplicative interviewing.

• Victim Support and Advocacy
  Victim support and advocacy services are routinely made available to all CAC clients and their non-offending family members as part of the multidisciplinary team response.

• Medical Evaluation
  Specialized medical evaluation and treatment services are routinely made available to all CAC clients and coordinated with the multidisciplinary team response.

• Mental Health
  Specialized trauma-focused mental health services, designed to meet the unique needs of the child and non-offending family members, are routinely made available as part of the multidisciplinary team response.

• Case Review
  A formal process in which multidisciplinary discussion and information sharing regarding the investigation, case status and services needed by the child and family is to occur on a routine basis.

• Case Tracking
  Children’s Advocacy Centers must develop and implement a system for monitoring case progress and tracking case outcomes for all MDT components.

• Organizational Capacity
  A designated legal entity responsible for program and fiscal operations has been established and implements basic sound administrative policies and procedures.

• Child-focused Setting
  The child-focused setting is comfortable, private, and both physically and psychologically safe for diverse populations of children and their non-offending family members.
The Child Abuse Network is a member of Tulsa County’s multidisciplinary child abuse team, which is organized and sanctioned under Oklahoma State Statute (Title 10A § 1-9-102) and is formally referred to as the Tulsa County District Attorney’s Task Force on Crimes Against Children.
Current signatory members of the task force include:

Tulsa County District Attorney’s Office
Tulsa County Department of Human Services - Child Welfare
United States Attorney’s Office for the Northern District of Oklahoma
University of Oklahoma School of Community Medicine - Tulsa
Tulsa County Sheriff’s Office
Tulsa Police Department
Broken Arrow Police Department
Owasso Police Department
Child Abuse Network, Inc.

Task force members agree and pledge to cooperate and coordinate their efforts to:

• Identify, investigate and prosecute those persons who commit crimes or acts of deprivation against children

• Maintain a multidisciplinary child abuse team pursuant to Title 10A § 1-9-102

• Provide child victims of crime and their families with medical, psychological, investigative and other appropriate assistance

• Provide educational programs that impact the causes and effects of crimes against children

• Promote any activity chosen by the members to be in the interest of children within Tulsa County
The Child Abuse Network coordinates and facilitates a centralized, team approach to minimize the trauma of child abuse investigations.
Forensic Interviews (1,831 interviews)
Forensic interviews are one of CAN’s most critical services. The Child Abuse Network employs professional child interview specialists who conduct forensic interviews at the request of child welfare or law enforcement investigators. CAN’s interviewers are specially trained to facilitate children’s abilities to make accurate statements about their experiences regarding reported abuse. CAN requires that its interviewers have graduate level education and specialized knowledge in the areas of child development, family systems and the dynamics of abuse.

Medical Evaluations (738 exams)
Medical evaluations are an essential part of a child abuse investigation. Medical findings assist investigators to determine whether abuse has occurred. Additionally, the child-friendly medical experts often relieve any anxiety that children may have about the health of their bodies. CAN contracts with the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Oklahoma School of Community Medicine - Tulsa to provide child abuse medical evaluations. The medical team is comprised of specially trained child abuse pediatricians and a nurse (LPN). The team responds to same/next day requests from the child welfare and law enforcement investigators.

Mental Health Services (513 consultations)
Child abuse investigations can be very overwhelming, and many children and families have difficulties dealing with new emotions and anxieties. CAN assists families in many ways, including crisis intervention, consultation and referrals to appropriate therapeutic services and community support programs.

CAN employs mental health specialists who have extensive knowledge in child development, the dynamics of abuse, crisis intervention, family systems and community resources. The mental health specialist’s primary focus is to provide immediate support and information to children and their caregivers, so they can establish long-term relationships with appropriate community support programs and therapeutic services.

Case Review and Case Management (788 children)
CAN’s team coordinator administers case review meetings twice a week. Case investigators have the opportunity to meet formally with team-agency representatives to discuss and exchange information related to specific child abuse cases. The team seeks to combine the insight and professional knowledge of individual team members and agency representatives for a more complete understanding of case issues and a more supportive response for the child and caregiver(s).
CAN provided services to 2,516 new children or approximately 50 children each week. Ninety-six percent of services provided were to children from Tulsa County.

Once again the Child Abuse Network has received an unqualified opinion from our independent auditor, Creason & Associates, P.L.L.C.

CAN is financially sound and our FY 2016 performance has exceeded the Finance Committee’s high standards of fiscal responsibility. Please note that significant differences between FY2015 and FY2016 financial positions (Pledges Receivable) and Statements of Activities (Contributions) are attributable to CAN’s capital campaign.
